Dominick Terranova

Student at University of New England, Searching For Data Science Internship

Medford, Massachusetts, United States

Summary

I'm Dominick Terranova, a passionate data science student currently pursuing my degree at the University of New England. Graduating high school in 2022, I embarked on this exciting academic journey, poised to graduate in 2026.

Proficient in Python and R Studio, eagerly diving into the world of data science and analytics.

Known for my confidence, overachievement, and an unyielding work ethic that drives me to excel in every endeavor.

Having gained valuable experience from various roles, I've honed my skills and work ethic since the age of 16. From efficiently managing transactions as a cashier in a bustling supermarket to hands-on labor at a gardening establishment, I've embraced diverse challenges. A testament to my interpersonal skills and adaptability, I've also had the privilege of working as a camp counselor. This role taught me the art of leadership, teamwork, and creating memorable experiences for young minds.

I'm enthusiastic about the possibilities that data science holds and am committed to pushing boundaries in this dynamic field. Eager to connect with fellow enthusiasts, potential collaborators, and industry professionals.
